

MRS. M. A. WOODELL.

MRS. B. M. STOCKETT.

MISS MARY VAN FOSSEN.

MRS. CHARLES F. WILLIAMS.
Wife of Lieut. Williams, U. S. A.

MISS KATHERINE KRUG.

FROM mountain, seashore and the famous spas of America prominent folk are sauntering back to catch the glory of mid-autumn life at the capital. The northwestern section of the city is slowly losing its boarded-up appearance, though it will be fully a month before there will be marked activity, winter residents here keeping their summer homes open for a fortnight yet and then scurrying off to bury themselves in the importers' shops of the London-Paris of America, New York, for as much longer.

Daily notes of the society folk motoring back to Washington from the summer playgrounds of the country show their independent attitude toward the railroad agitations, and it is not unusual to hear a call from a popular hotel for accommodations at some garage for two or three automobiles and an automobile truck, the caravan conveying some well known family from one part of the country to another.

Even with the President and Vice President away and cabinet members dashing out of town for a few days of campaign work and back again, many members of official and unofficial society were to be seen at the opera, the various clubs and driving in the late afternoon about the Mall during the days of last week.

Those who know Washington best always return for these midautumn days, and that many know and love them was evidenced at the Marine Band concerts on the White House lawn, when several hundred persons strolled, sat or lounged beneath the trees, to hear, in the open, selections of grand opera and the classics dear to the hearts of all artists. The officials of the State, War and Navy departments made a notable circle in the President's front yard, and even cabinet members halted on their busy way for the concert.

A dainty old lady with the breath of neutrality in her stately garments leaned back in her seat and knitted away on a stocking for some soldier on the battlefields over the water, at one concert, and men with their empty dinner pails—just ordinary soldiers of toil—trudged slowly over the chief executive's lawn and tarried to hear snatches from famous composers.

Weddings not so numerous as brilliant preface the debutantes' season, and Miss Beatrice Clover has arrived to hurry arrangements for her marriage on November 1 to Mr. J. S. M. C. and Mrs. Olive Gale Hill to prepare for her marriage to Capt. Ridley McLean, U. S. N., about the same time.

The latter marriage will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Gale, early in November, and there will be few or no attendants besides the bridegroom's best man.

For Miss Clover, however, there will be a group of attendants selected from her girl friends, who have surrounded her since her first school days and the little girl parties which made the home of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clover famous.

There is far more than usual interest in the Washington society in the October out-of-town weddings, and that of Mr. Walter Scott Penfield of this city and Miss Alice Lucile, daughter of Omaha, Neb., Monday, October 9, seems with local color. When Mr. Penfield and his best man, Senator Ernest N. Hill, first secretary and charge d'affaires of the Panamanian legation, leave here tomorrow for the western city, the latter will hear with him his unique gift to Miss Bacon. Mr. Penfield will take his bride to Panama as part of the wedding journey, and she will surprise society folk there by wearing, instead of her wealth of jewels, the adena chata, flat chapeau and ornament which form part of the pollera, or national costume of the women of Panama. Mr. Lefevre had the ancient gift selected with great care, and the inch-wide flat chain which, suspended about the neck, hangs below the belt line, is made of disks of gold, cut out by hand and connected with exquisite skill and delicacy. The pendant is a Peruvian gold coin of high denomination, cast in 1823, and surrounded by exquisite network of filigree in old Spanish design.

Mr. Penfield and the party to accompany him west will enjoy a week of constant entertainment before the wedding.

Dr. Charles Paul Hubscher, secretary of the Swiss legation, about whose marriage October 14 to Miss Elizabeth Schoepf of Cincinnati much interest will be in the capital Wednesday, October 11, for the home of his bride. He will be accompanied by Count Raoul d'Adhemar, his best man, and others.

The list of debutantes grows apace, and includes Miss Margaret Fahnestock and Miss Ethel Harriman, who have already been introduced at Newport; Miss Louise Hoar, who will have her preliminary presentation in Boston; Miss Agnes Messick, daughter of Mr. Charles C. Marbury; Miss Camilla Lippincott, Miss Nellie Johnson, Miss Emily Kutz, Miss Anna Montgomery, the embassy for the winter, have been joined in Washington by the counselor of the embassy and Princess von Hatzfeldt-Trachenberg, who are stopping at the Shoreham preparatory to taking possession of 1618 21st street, the residence they have leased for the season.

Baron von Schoen, secretary, and Dr. Georg Ahrens, attaché of the embassy staff, will arrive here today, coming from the summer embassy at Rye, N. Y.

The Russian ambassador and Mme. Bakhmeteff are leaving Newport for a visit in New York before coming to the embassy on 16th street.

Members of the embassy staff will arrive from Newport this week.

The military attaché of the Argentine embassy, Col. Eduardo Raybaud, will accompany Mme. Raybaud and the Misses Raybaud to New York this afternoon, where they will be at the Vanderbilt Hotel until Mrs. Raybaud and her daughters sail on October 6.

Col. and Mme. Raybaud will go to Glen Cove, L. I., Tuesday to be the guests of Miss Alice De Lamar and to join their daughter, Miss Grynga Raybaud, who has been her guest for the past week.

The entire party will return to New York Thursday, when Miss De Lamar will give a ball in compliment to Miss Grynga Raybaud, whose birthday anniversary falls on that date.

Mme. Raybaud and her daughters will go to Spain, where they will be the guests of Mme. Raybaud's sister, Mme. Zeldes, at her home in Madrid. Col. Raybaud has taken an apartment at Rauscher's for the coming winter.

Jonkheer A. W. L. Tjarda van Starkenborgh-Stopchouwer, attaché of the Netherlands legation, and Mme. van Starkenborgh-Stopchouwer have arrived at Lenox on their way to Washington. They have been visiting Mme. van Starkenborgh-Stopchouwer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marbury, at their summer home, at Chester, Nova Scotia.

Mme. Ewing, wife of Maj. Alfredo Ewing, military attaché of the Chilean embassy, has returned to Washington from Long Branch, where she had a cottage for the summer.

Col. and Mrs. Patrick Here.

Col. and Mrs. Mason M. Patrick have arrived and are located at the Washington barracks for the season.

Col. Patrick succeeds in command Col. Kuhn, who goes as military attaché to the embassy at Berlin. Col. Patrick is called the professional successor of Col. Kuhn, having followed him at West Point, Fort Monroe and Fort Leavenworth.

Recent Hospitalities.

Miss Katharine Love entertained at luncheon Friday. Her guests were Miss May Cole, Miss Hazel Conklin, Miss Florence Daniels and Miss Betty Richardson.

The Misses Ruth Howell, Hazel Conklin, Florence Daniels, Natalie Rohrick and Katharine Love took a hike out to the Eastern branch Sunday, where a picnic dinner was enjoyed.

Notes of Interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson have returned to their home in this city from Monterey, Pa., where they have one of the most charming cottages at that resort. Just before leaving for home Miss Nellie Johnson gave an afternoon tea, which was attended by the smart Washington colony at Monterey.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Glasie have returned to their home on Bradley Lane, Chevy Chase, from Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., where they passed the summer. They have as their guest at present Mr. Edward Caffery, son of the late Senator Caffery of Louisiana.

Mr. and Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis will not leave their country place, Outlands, near Leesburg, Va., until late in October, when they will return to Washington and reopen Corcoran House for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peabody Eustis will return this week to their home at 17th and I streets, from Newport, where they went after spending all the earlier portion of the summer at Harlakendon, the Cornish (N. H.) estate formerly occupied by the President.

Mrs. Pilling has returned to Washington with Miss Daisy Owen, who was her guest at her attractive summer home at Charming, Pa. Mrs. Pilling's daughter, Mrs. Dunham, spent a portion of the season with her.

Mrs. Ben Hellen, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Bowers, returned last week from Charming, Pa., where they spent the season.

Gen. Horatio G. Gibson will leave for New York in time to attend the annual dinner of the Astor Society at the University Club October 12. The club was formed in Mexico City October 13, 1847, and Gen. Gibson, who is now vice president, will be made president.

Mrs. George Wallace will accompany her father to New York.

Commander and Mrs. William Manning Irwin and their family returned to their city home yesterday after having spent the summer with Capt. and Mrs. Norton in Chevy Chase. Capt. and Mrs. Norton have also returned to their home on 19th street for the season.

Lieut. Thomas B. Larkin, whose engagement to Miss Mary Regina Irwin was announced this month, has gone to Mexico on troop duty, and will not return here until early in January.

The wedding will probably take place in the early spring.

Mrs. Truxton Beale and daughter are planning to close their summer home at San Rafael, Cal., soon. They will come to Washington for the winter.

Maj. George J. Newgarden, U. S. A., and Mrs. Newgarden have reopened their home on Massachusetts avenue after a prolonged stay in Atlantic City.

Lieut. George J. Newgarden, Jr., U. S. A., has joined his regiment, the 35th Infantry, stationed at Douglas, Ariz.

Mrs. Bowman McCalla is in California for a brief stay, after an absence of two years in the east. She is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, wife of Commander MacArthur.

U. S. N., at Coronado. Mrs. McCalla will visit San Francisco before returning to Washington.

Mrs. Benjamin Ames Laning is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Tharp, while Mr. Laning, who is assistant to Capt. Emil Theils of the 6th of inspection and survey of ships, is on board the Wilkes on her trial trip off the coast of Maine.
